

VISION

California's American Indian and Indigenous Film Festival (CAIIFF) connects, support and builds communities by presenting the best in American Indian and Indigenous film from around the world and providing artists with a supportive and professional forum in which to present their work.

MISSION

Showcases American Indian and Indigenous made content while facilitating spirited discussions within a respectful international and historical context;

Educates both native and non-native communities about the lived realities, both past and present, of indigenous peoples;

Entertains native and mainstream audiences through an engaging forum and major cultural event;

Cultivates young native artists and filmmakers from our communities, preparing the next generation of media makers by encouraging youth to choose filmmaking as a career path.